Disabled? John Kerry never even had to spend ONE night in a military

Let me tell you something that I do not talk about often. I have 4

Purple

Hearts. It took me 26 years of service to earn (yes, earn) them. I was nominated for them by my COs for injuries by hostile forces during combat, resulting in #1 the flesh burned off my legs from the feet to the knees, #2 having a bullet shatter my kneecap, #3 taking 4 bullets in the abdomen, resulting in loss of my gallbladder, part of my liver and intestines and #4 having my elbow shattered by a bullet and minutes later receiving an 8" knife wound in the same arm. Yet I completed my missions in all instances. I have so many prosthetic parts in me that my son calls me RoboPop. I didn't ask for the medals, I didn't ask to be removed from active duty or combat operations, and when I finally retired I put them away in a box with the rest of my medals, (including the

Bronze Star, the Combat Medal, the Presidential Unit Citation and the Navy

Cross) and left them locked away. I did not operate in theater for 3 months, 27 days like Kerry and then use self-claimed medals to get out of harm's way and a desk job stateside. I was proud to defend my country, and I did not run from my responsibility to do so. Kerry is a disgrace to honorable veterans and the brave men and women of our armed forces.
